Build a best-in-class colocation business

Propagation latency is a key concern for your customers, and they are looking to get as close to your matching engines and access points as possible. Providing them with colocation services will allow you to increase order flow and revenues, and provide your customers a high-quality, low-latency service. However, this involves some risk and significant costs, and strategically located data centre space of the right calibre is in short supply.

Interxion is perfectly placed to help. We operate Financial Hubs in world-class facilities which are strategically located in all of Europe's key financial centres. By partnering with us, you can build a low-risk, low-cost, best-in-class colocation business fast – at the heart of the markets.

Exceptional proximity

Interxion's Financial Hubs house a large and growing community of trading venues, broker-dealers, proprietary trading firms, hedge funds, market data vendors and financial service providers. Locating with us puts you right where your customers are doing business – close to the liquidity and close to their dealing rooms.

Better connections, lower costs

Latency to other Financial Hub members can be optimised through direct cross-connects. Our carrier neutrality provides your customers with an unrivalled choice of low-latency connectivity to other liquidity venues, with 350 Network Service Providers across our European footprint.

Maximum security & availability

Interxion Financial Hubs are based in ultra-secure, state-of-the-art facilities. They have multiple layers of security, including man traps, CCTV and 24-hour access control. They offer high-density power configurations and redundancy levels of N+1 or N+N as standard. All Interxion facilities deploy sophisticated Site Management Systems for integrated monitoring and have been accredited to the independently assessed ISO 27001 standard for information security and business continuity.
